Lifelong Seaside resident Vern Raw fondly remembered

By BRAD BOLCHUNOS
Of The Daily Astorian

SEASIDE — Friends of lifelong resident Vern Raw called him a kind man who was quietly dedicated to the community, and will be missed.

Raw, a property manager and entrepreneur, died Monday following an illness. He was 85.

"If you knew him, you loved him," said Tom Baker, who met him in 1939. "He was really a number-one Seaside person."

Baker said Raw had a remarkable sense of humor, and was exceedingly well mannered – "one of God's gentlemen." He also frequently donated to community causes, such as fire department equipment fund-raisers, Baker said.

Raw once donated $10,000 to the Seaside Museum in honor of his mother, his friend Bill Schultz said. He provided funds for numerous monuments and historical markers in town with his brother, Lester Raw, a former Seaside mayor who died June 28.

He was born April 23, 1912. A photograph at the museum shows Vern Raw as a young boy in the early '20s, accepting newspapers for delivery after they were dropped by hydroplane from Portland. He worked as a bellboy at the Seaside Hotel from 1927 to 1929 while attending high school.

He successfully engaged in a wide variety of business ventures over the years. Among them were pinball and coin machine routes, and music and vending machine operations from 1936 to 1972. He was co-owner of the Seasider Motor Inn from 1962 to 1976, oversaw operations for the Funland Amusement Center from 1938 to 1983, and continued to manage property until this year.

"He was a very interesting man, had a good personality and was a wonderful friend," Schultz said.

Vernon "Vern" Glen Raw is survived by his wife, Margaret; daughters Mary Ruth, Sara Louise and Debra Lyn; son Charles; seven grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. Visitation is available today from noon to 5 p.m. at Hughes-Ransom Mortuary at 220 N. Holladay Drive. Funeral services will be conducted at the Hughes-Ransom chapel Friday at 1 p.m.

The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: he leadeth me beside the still waters. He restoreth my soul: he leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake. Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me. Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies: thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over. Surely, goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever.

Mildred Schwab, former Portland leader, dies at 82

PORTLAND (AP) — Mildred Schwab, one of the most popular, powerful and colorful politicians in the recent history of Portland City Hall, was found dead in her home Wednesday.

Known for her love of music and civic affairs, the feisty, fun-loving, chain-smoking former city commissioner had celebrated her 82nd birthday Saturday.

Her only surviving sibling, Herbert Schwab, 83, former mayor of Cannon Beach and a retired chief judge of the Oregon Court of Appeals, said his sister apparently died during the night. He said a neighbor noticed a light on in Schwab's home, where she lived alone, and found her slumped over the kitchen table.

Although she was still driving and reasonably active, she recently had been in poor health with congestive heart disease, her brother said.

He and others praised her as a woman of great intelligence, one of the first woman lawyers in Oregon, an accomplished pianist and the kind of person who swiftly let you know where you stood.

Appointed to the Portland City Council in January 1973, Mildred Schwab went on to easily win three elections before her retirement from the council in 1986.

Schwab never married. She devoted her time to work, her piano and her pets. She made the rounds with firefighters and police officers and was known for her German shepherd companions, which often joined her at City Hall.

''She was probably one of the most well-known and popular city commissioners in the history of the city,'' said Mike Lindberg, a former city commissioner.

Neil Goldschmidt, who served as Portland's mayor and later Oregon's governor, called Schwab ''a wonderful person and a wonderful friend.''

Portland Mayor Vera Katz asked for a moment of silence in Schwab's remembrance during Wednesday's City Council session.

''She was a one-of-a-kind individual, sometimes feisty and unafraid, but always compassionate,'' Katz said. ''Mildred understood that real public service must be based on truth and principle. She was well-loved by the citizens of this city.''

Katz asked for flags to be flown at half-staff.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Nigerian Youth Camp, in care of Caldwell's Luce-Layton Mortuary, 1165 Franklin Ave., Astoria, OR 97103.

Marilou Sayer and her family invite their friends to share in remembering Stan at a Requiem Mass to be held at 8:00 a.m., Sunday, 6 August 2000, at Grace Episcopal Church, 1545 Franklin Avenue, Astoria, Oregon.

Stan was born on 4 April, 1924 in Minneapolis, MN to Stan Sayer, Sr. and Jessie Marie Dougherty Sayer. He passed away peacefully at his home on 19 July, 2000, surrounded by his family.

Stan graduated from Perham High School, Minnesota, in 1942 and from Officer's Candidate School in St. Petersburg, FL. in 1943. He chose to serve as a Third Mate with the Army Transportation Corps and was immediately shipped to Australia, where he assumed command of the FS 385, supplying troops throughout the South Pacific during WWII. At war's end he was honorably discharged from the US Army. He then sailed with Military Sea Transportation Service until 1955, during which time he obtained an Unlimited Master's License in 1952.

Stan continued his education at the University of Washington, with a major in Oceanography. However, the lure to the sea remained in his heart and he sailed around the world as Master for Victory Carriers until 1969, when he came ashore to serve as a First Class Pilot upon the waters of Grays Harbor and Willapa Bay. He joined the Columbia River Bar Pilots in 1975, retiring in 1994.

Stan's love of travel was shared by his family, and over the years they traveled extensively all over the world and his beloved America. Above all, though, Stan was an avid outdoorsman who loved to fish and hunt over his Vizslas.

His close affiliation to Grace Episcopal Church was such a comfort to him, as evidenced in his participation in so many church activities. He belonged to Astoria Golf and Country Club, Duck Unlimited, Master, Mates and Pilots and American Merchant Marine Veterans. He gave so much of himself to his family and others. "He made a difference".

Stan will continue to live in the hearts of those he touched. He will always be remembered for his enthusiasm for life and his caring and compassionate ways. Nothing can erase the joy he brought to his wife of 48 years, to his daughter, Danielle and to his his son, Stanley Sayer, III. Other survivors include his sister and brother-in-law, Jeanne and Donald Larson, Mercer Island, WA.; his brother and sister-in-law, Capt. William and Jackie Sayer, Virginia Beach, VA.; and many dear nieces and nephews.

The family suggests that any memorial gifts be made to Grace Church Memorial Endowment Fund, 1545 Franklin, Astoria 97103, or Lower Columbia Hospice, in memory of Stan Sayer, 2111 Exchange, St., Astoria, OR 97103.

God saw she was getting tired,
And a cure was not to be,
So He put His arms around her
And whispered,
"Come to Me."
With tearful eyes we watched her suffer
And saw her fade away
Although we loved her dearly,
We could not make her stay.
A golden heart stopped beating
Hard working hands to rest;
God broke our hearts
to prove to us
He only takes the best.

Bridge wreck claims Astorian

Aug 27 87

An Astoria man died and four members of a Longview, Wash., family were injured when a pickup and a car collided Wednesday evening on the Astoria Bridge.

The driver of the pickup, Steven West, 33, of 629 18th St., died during surgery at Columbia Memorial Hospital about two hours after the 7:28 p.m. accident, according to authorities. A hospital spokeswoman said West had sustained massive chest injuries.

Nathan Rogers, 11, who was a passenger in a car driven by his stepfather, Edward Dean Nagle, suffered severe head injuries and was in critical condition this morning at Emanuel Hospital, a hospital spokeswoman said. The youth was flown to the Portland hospital by a Life Flight helicopter after initial treatment at Columbia Memorial.

The boy's parents, Nagle, 36, and Francisa Nagle, 35, and his 9-year-old brother, Ryan E. Nagle, were released from the Columbia Memorial emergency room after being treated for cuts and bruises.

According to Astoria police, West was headed south on the bridge when his 1980 Toyota pickup crossed the center line and struck the Nagles' northbound 1984 Chevrolet Cavalier. The accident occurred on the U.S. Highway 101 bridge about one-half mile from West Marine Drive.

A resident working on his house overlooking the bridge told police that he heard brakes squealing and saw the truck hit the car at about a 25-degree angle and then flip over twice, a police report said. The truck was coming down the bridge incline and the car was going up.

Mrs. Nagle told police the family saw the southbound truck cross the center line. Her husband slowed down almost to a stop and pulled as far to the right as possible to avoid the accident, she said.

West was pinned in the wreckage of his truck and an extrication tool was used to free him. Police said two doctors and Medix Ambulance Service emergency medical technicians treated West and a doctor and Medix personnel treated Nathan Rogers at the accident site.

Astoria police said bridge traffic was tied up for about an hour. Oregon State Police and the Clatsop County Sheriff's Department also responded to the accident.

Colorful local figure 'Kewpie' Ziak dies

8-20-90

Bob 'Kewpie' Ziak, pictured in the early 1970s, was noted for his love of animals and for championing environmental causes.

Colorful Clatsop County environmentalist, historian, farmer and logger Bob ''Kewpie'' Ziak died Thursday in a Portland hospital. He was 72.

Mr. Ziak was born Sept. 16, 1917, in Astoria, and grew up in the logging camps in the Big Creek area until his parents moved onto a homestead in the Knappa Slough area. He was nicknamed ''Kewpie'' because when he was born he had a curl on the top of his head resembling the dolls popular at the time.

A 1936 graduate of Knappa High School, Mr. Ziak worked in the woods after his graduation.

In the early 1940s, he enlisted in the U.S. Army. He became involved with the New Hampshire National Guards, a group of World War II volunteers. His anti-aircraft unit fought in Australia, New Guinea, the East Indies and the southern Philippines. He received a good conduct medal, American defense service medal, Asiatic Pacific service medal, Philippine liberation medal and a bronze service star.

After World War II, Mr. Ziak returned to Clatsop County and logged and farmed in the Knappa area.

He had an interest in the natural world, wildlife and birds from an early age and had studied many books on waterfowl, botany and animals.

He was a noted activist in Clatsop County environmental issues and since the 1940s had kept a wildlife preserve on his property in Knappa where wild Canada geese and ducks reside year-round, protected from hunters.

In the late 1960s and early 1970s, Ziak achieved national recognition for his activities against timber companies' policies of cutting eagle nesting trees. He almost single-handedly forced the huge conglomerates to stop cutting the trees and leave enough timber standing around them to protect eagles' nests. According to his nephew, Rex Ziak, ''He got enough people outraged to save the eagles. It took years. He spoke for the voiceless ones, the animals.''

Mr. Ziak was active in the fight against locating an aluminum smelter in Clatsop County in the early '70s. He also was active in protecting salmon spawning grounds from a mining company and waged war against bear hunters.

His interest in history, especially the Lewis and Clark Expedition, led him to the discovery of a previously unknown expedition campsite near the Knappa Boat Ramp that was officially recognized by the Oregon Historical Society.

Writer Studs Terkel included a section about Ziak in his 1980 book ''American Dreams — Lost and Found.''

''He was a public man,'' Rex Ziak says, ''powerful in spirit and voice, a warrior. He fought physically from the time he was in high school and when he stopped fighting physically, he started fighting with words.''

Harriet Antoniou of Andrew and Steve's Restaurant remembers Ziak, who came to the restaurant frequently, as ''a very jolly man, very likable. He joked with everybody and never got mad. He was very good to his mother and adored animals. He always had two or three dogs in the back of his truck. I don't think I ever saw him mad, always had a huge smile on his face, no matter what time of the day. He was a very kind man.''

Stephanie Dunagan, a waitress at Andrew and Steve's, said, ''I'll always remember his love of animals, nature and the environment, that's what we always talked about.''

Georgia Oja, of the Logger Restaurant in Knappa, said, ''Kewpie was an institution around here since day one, he was part of the fixtures. He always brought chocolates to the waitresses on holidays. He's going to be greatly missed. He was a real colorful character. We'll especially miss him as an environmentalist, nobody will go to bat like he did. He was the voice. When he believed in something you heard it loud and clear.''

Mr. Ziak is survived by his brothers, Donny and Gary Ziak, both of Knappa; a sister, Gloria DeGroote, Stevenson, Wash.; and many nieces and nephews.

A graveside funeral will be Wednesday at 11 a.m. at Knappa Prairie Cemetery, followed by a reception at the Wickiup Grange in Svensen. Memorial contributions may be made to the National Audubon Society. Hughes-Ransom Mortuary, Astoria, was in charge of arrangements.
